SMOKED PECORINO CHEESE LAZZONE WHOLE WHEEL 2-2.5KG APPROX

Lazzone

Smoked aged pecorino

Lazzone is a seasoned table pecorino made of unpasteurized milk processed raw. There are no preservatives or additives. Veal rennet makes it less spicy than Fiore Sardo. After a light smoking, the wheel is washed with red wine vinegar and extra virgin olive oil. The seasoning lasts from eight to twenty-four months.

It is eaten alone or accompanied by bread and cold cuts, pounded lard, beans with oil and chickpeas. When heavily seasoned, it gives flavor to risottos, soups and pasta in white, or with the addition of black pepper and freshly sizzled sweet bacon. Paired with strawberries and sour oranges. It goes well with slightly sparkling water. Try it with the Aleatico dell'Elba.

Fiore Sardo PDO

Long aged pecorino

Fiore Sardo is one of the thirty-one Italian cheeses with a protected designation of origin, produced only with Sardinian sheep's milk. The rennet is lamb.

The Fiore Sardo by Giuseppe Cugusi undergoes a particular process, in fact, before the long seasoning, it is lightly smoked, according to an ancient method, and finally washed with red wine vinegar and extra virgin olive oil. It is one of the few Italian sheep cheeses produced with raw milk, this allows you to preserve the variety of scents, six flavors and aromas. It is worked entirely by hand, and its shape has a dark and hard crust, while inside the dough is crumbly and of a beautiful bronzed cream color. It has a unique and recognizable taste, it preserves a thousand flavors in one, and it is better to eat it little by little because it gets drunk.

The King of aged cheeses is humble and generous, and adapts to different combinations: with bread and water to enjoy the flavor; with full-bodied red wine in the cold season; with sweet wine, a sip and a sliver to feel good; excellent with chilled champagne. It goes well with fruit, especially with watermelon and figs, but also with sweet oranges and apples. It goes well with ham and lard, with fresh and firm tomatoes and onions. And also a grating cheese. Fiore Sardo gives soul to any type of pasta, to soups, rice seasoned with a hint of lard and rosemary. It nourishes and is highly digestible, indicated in the diet of the elderly and sportsmen.

"Pecorino for the table

Sa Marchesa is a table pecorino made of unpasteurized milk processed raw. There are no preservatives or additives. The rennet is made from veal, it is eaten fresh, perhaps alone or accompanied by ripe figs, grapes, tomatoes and ham.

If slightly seasoned it goes well with fruit mustard, honey, but also with pears and walnuts.

The water enhances it, as well as the sparkling and light red wine.
